DESIGNER'S TAKE

“By removing a dividing wall and relocating the fireplace, I effectively doubled the size of the kitchen and allowed it to spill into the dining room. The cabinetry gives the kitchen a contemporary look without going too far—the Prairie door style has traditional aspects, but is designed to be very clean and sleek,” says Aiello. “The countertops also straddle the line of contemporary and traditional and, paired with the cabinetry and textured raw-tile backsplash, trend contemporary without feeling out of place with the rest of the home.”
